

London Evening Standard

Wednesday 15 February 2017

FREE

standard.co.uk

Homes & Property

Homes with wardrobes fit for a supermodel

PLUS From derelict garage
to show-stopping home in 22 years (on and off)

LONDON'S TOP PROPERTY
GUIDE INSIDE TODAY

WEST END FINAL

Any colour, as long as it's white

THE focus is on white at Ordovas gallery, 25 Savile Row, where the Monochrome exhibition features sculpture in various tones of the shade by artists including Barbara Hepworth, Isamu Noguchi and Richard Serra. It's the first time Alberto Giacometti's Femme has been on public display since its creation almost 80 years ago. Coming up later this year are Monochrome at the National Gallery and Giacometti at Tate Modern.

From 1966:
Barbara Hepworth's Maquette for large sculpture:
Three Forms
(Two circles)

